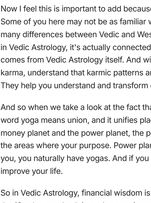
Module 2: Unlocking Cosmic Financial Flow

Welcome back everyone. We are gathered again for Module Two. Now Module Two and Three, we're going to cover over the next hour, and depending on how we're doing, I'll check in with everyone. We either take just a very short break in between, or we're going to keep going and try and cover both Module Two and Three together. They connect with each other, and then you're going to see as we go into the third hour, we might finish Module Two and Three a little early, take a small break, and then we really want stamina for covering Module Four and Five, because that's where we're going to be integrating it all and doing a breakout to make sense of and planning our year after we've gone over the entire first quarter of the year. So you'll have a very big chunk after these next two hours and a very complete way of knowing what your one thing is each month. So without further ado, I'm going to go ahead and share my screen again. We're going to go into the slides. There we go.

Vedic Astrology: Your Soul's Financial Blueprint



Now I feel this is important to add because it will begin to make sense of why the Quick Start Guide is so important. Some of you here may not be as familiar with Vedic Astrology, and the important pieces to understand there are many differences between Vedic and Western astrology, but in the context of financial wisdom, the biggest is that in Vedic Astrology, it's actually connected to that word karma, right down here. This the basis of the word karma comes from Vedic Astrology itself. And without going into the definition of karma and all the many different kinds of karma, understand that karmic patterns are a soul level tendency, and they shape your relationship with money. They help you understand and transform deep rooted financial behaviors.

And so when we take a look at the fact that in Vedic Astrology, in a chart, there's this thing called yogas. Yoga, the word yoga means union, and it unifies places of action and places of purpose. So when we actually have the money planet and the power planet, the power planet is related to your ascendant those actually are showing you the areas where your purpose. Power planet is related to purpose and money planet can combine. And for some of you, you naturally have yogas. And if you don't have that union, you're being given the opportunity to change and improve your life.

So in Vedic Astrology, financial wisdom is connected to the fact that there are lunar mansions that existed before the 12 solar months. It is such an ancient system. It's five to 7000 years old in oral tradition, and there's 27 lunar mansions. This was actually a matriarchal or lunar based system. Before the 12 months in the solar houses came into existence. The nakshatras or the lunar mansions are more important.

Planetary Cycles and Green Days

And so when the planet is in a certain when the moon is in a certain lunar mansion, and Jupiter, Venus or Mercury are aligned, it has become what I call a Green Day, okay, and personalities timing. So there's this other thing called Planetary cycles. So there's your birth chart, and then there's planetary cycles, which actually show what karmas are lighting up in your personal life. And then in the year 2026 we also have these other cycles. So I'm actually going to be pulling out for you when Mars is very strong, when Venus is strong, and the influences of Jupiter and a bit on Saturn that's actually woven into your report, the influences of Saturn, I'm focusing mostly on Jupiter, Mars and Venus for the arcs of the themes of the year.

And the sky map is different. It's 23 degrees different. So if you know your western chart, and you're given this, it might sound a little bit different, but it's actually more exact and specific. And when it comes to financial matters, it plays itself out differently, because, again, the whole theme of Vedic Astrology is, how can you use the perspective, this greater perspective to be in alignment, instead of pushing against the forces that are when there is a hurricane out, do you put on a bikini and go outside? Do you ski down a ski slope when it's hailing in a bikini? No, we don't, right. We don't have to look at our phone to know the weather. You know you wouldn't do that. That some people will actually ski in shorts in gorgeous weather, but you actually want to go out. You either don't want to go out when there's a hurricane, or if you have to go out and it's raining, you want an umbrella or something. So that's literally what Vedic Astrology is for, is to show you alignment so that you can, oh, put on a big parka because it's cold and windy out, that's alignment, okay? And also, if it's sunny, you don't want to have that big parka on to go to the beach. So it's literally being in alignment. It's very simple. It's planetary weather mapping.

Conscious Calendars and The Quick Start Guide

And that is actually how I created conscious calendars. And so in conscious calendars, many of you here, most of you here, have conscious calendars, but some of you don't, and so as part of the entire year planning, I am giving the quick start guide, which for people who don't know conscious calendars, it's just a way to get your feet wet and give you something to hang your hat on. For those who have the calendars, you've got the full monthly calendars and the monthly videos. But this is a way that you can plant and take action on green days. So these things that you've just written down saying, Oh, I'm going to go do I'm going to, you know, be less hidden, and I'm going to go to events, right? Those are going to actually have more flourishing. There's more energy flourishing between people on green days, and we keep perspective on yellow days, miscommunication among friends or teams or social media, maybe don't make a possibly controversial statement on social media on a yellow day or between friends, even if you just think it's joking, yellow days tend to be a little more misunderstandings, or it takes twice As long to get to where you're going because you walked out the door and you forgot the thing, and you had to come back or there was something in your way. So yellow days bring complications, and red days are not anything to be concerned about. They're simply rest and nourish days. There are at least 12. There's really 10 single red days, and then there's four mega red days in the year of 2026, so these energies are meant to help you with effortless flow and sustainable growth and maximize potential. So between understanding where your energy is maximized and also understanding Green Days, ding, ding, ding, are you seeing how this comes together, where you understand where your efforts multiply, and green days, when you take efforts that either associated with your power planet or your money planet, you're going to get amplification. Okay, so this is all about sustainable growth. This is the concept behind it. And so, Jennifer, I think we are to the point where this is what I was just explaining.

Understanding Green, Yellow, and Red Days

So green is go optimal. So there's sometimes optimal periods, sometimes there's Green Day waves. And I'm going to talk about January having three Green Day waves. We have two of them left. Those are great for launches. Those are great just for taking action. So if you're going to reach out to a friend to book a dinner, if you're going to create a new project, if you're an artist, if you are somebody who creates things, be it an entrepreneur or you're just helping your family or friends, it's also those are the days that the energy between people is flourishing. So they're great for parties events, but also taking a bold step or making changes in your personal routines, for health, in your organization, or in your home or in your body.

Okay, now I, like I mentioned, prepare and adjust. We set our expectations a little differently on yellow days and the red days because mental energy is not at its highest. Those are not days to make big, important decisions. If you happen to have a team meeting on that day, if you happen to have, you know, big scoping things, you probably want to just cut the meeting short and just kind of get a little feedback from everyone and then maybe reschedule the meeting. Red days are great days for rest. They're great days for just moving a little slower. If you're someone who takes a walk every single day or works out regularly, red days, you can still do your typical routine, but if you work out for, say, you do a half hour or an hour every single day, you don't want to push it on red days, because that will actually affect your health one to two months later. It's a delayed effect. I've I've tracked it between Ayurveda and Chinese medicine. We can actually see that these are important nodal days, so they're not days to be afraid of. You can still go for a walk, you can still do your thing, you just don't push it. And I literally have watched periods of time where I'm walking every single day the exact same route, seven days a week, and on the red day, I'm doing the exact same route, exact and I'm. Literally efforting when I'm going up the same hill that I was just like smoking two days before, and then the next day it's like, oh, okay, it's back to because we're into the new moon, the energy builds again. And so you can actually watch this even if you do the same thing every day in the same route. Okay, just something to notice that you don't push it on red days, but they're great days to nourish.

January Green Day Waves and Key Dates

So in that, Jennifer, let's go ahead and head and add the URL that everyone was sent in their email. But in the media I'm calling it Media Gallery. It's a link to on the website for you is your quick start guide, and in your quick start guide, let me just see here, I'm going to stop the share for a moment so I can look around and my own screen. Do all of you have it? Let's see I'm just going to do one click. I had everything for Module One up before we started. Here it is. I'm accessing it in a different spot. Here it is, okay, and coming back to zoom. Hello everyone. There we go, and I'm going to share all right now in your quick start guide. What I want you to see is that I've done a lot of work here in simplifying things. For those of you who have conscious calendars, you already get, you know, the revenue goes to set up and organize or work behind the scenes, or just be prepared that if you're running an errand like yellow day, I run an errand and thought, that's okay. It's just across town, and it literally took me five hours. It was to go buy a rug someplace. It just ridiculous. I got lost. Oh my god, it's just comical. What happens on yellow days, sometimes so often good to just kind of like not look at email as often on yellow days, if you have to go out, you just kind of expect things to take longer. It's okay.

What I've done in your quick start guide is I've given you the two best green days, or the most vibey or happier or more energy between people, or just kind of a good energy of the month. So let's take a look at that and realize that when we go into the next module, we're going to be focused on January, February, March and April. So right now, take a look at that and notice here we are in the class. We are on a Green Day today and tomorrow. That's the 11th and the 12th. And we can see we already had one of the biggest Green Days, because that was around that lovely full moon, and I had the event then. And then we've got a green day today, the 11th and the 12th. You're now getting three green days. And realize that we've got this energy in the middle of the month now we do have and we'll be going into it when we do our one thing grid is January happens to have three Green Day waves. So we've got two days in the middle of the month, and then we get a wave at the end of the month, the 27th of January through the second of February. I've shared that in videos with everybody who is a conscious calendars member, and so you're getting right here, this focus and noticing that you've got today and tomorrow to get some important things done. It's not your only chance, though.

So when you get the calendars, it gives you this whole view, and I give guidance for the month. Now you can see that on the 22nd you want to make sure you note that that's a day to especially look out for right to just be prepared to have your meals ready to have the time for your meals ready, or just understand that you want to be mindful of your communications or your plans for the day. And then the 18th is the day before the moon is fully new, and that is your quiet, rest and repose day. So January is an important month to notice that the red day February will go into when, when we get into the the monthly grid. But I just want to point out that February has, ah, the nice Green Day on February 1 and the end of the month, February 26 March, it's all at the end of the month. And I'm going, Ooh, there's the good stuff, okay? And there's a reason, and you'll understand that when we look at the one thing in March. But do you see how there's this cadence happening that we've got the beginning of February, the end of February, and then we get almost a month before we get another series of, like, the biggest Green Days. There's plenty of green days in between that, but I'm giving you the best energies, okay? And then April we have again, the beginning of the month, April 3 and April 30. So I'm giving you a cadence to understand that you want to put stars on those days on your calendar. And then you can go ahead and fill in the rest of these. If you are not a calendar owner, if you're a calendar owner, you. Probably do still want to put stars on these green days and understand that when we now go, ha, let's see. We've looked at your money planet and what those keywords are and how that actually helps things flow to you. We've taken a look at your money planet, your power planet, and how your actions are scaled now you've combined it and said, Ha, how can I combine these two for the one thing I'll do this next week? Ha, here we are on Monday January 12. You can do one of those things that you just said you would do in the next week, on Monday, January 12, and you don't have to wait until February 1 for your next one, because I've already given the secret away that you've got a whole window to look at the 27th of January through the second of February. Is a green is a third Green Day wave in the month of January.

Applying Green Day Energies for Impact

So these are great windows to then focus on anything that's outward facing events. If you're leaving the house or even if you're just getting together one on one with a friend, there will be particular flourishing, or the actions you take that are looking at scaling literally happen better on those green days. So that's what I wanted to give you the perspective of what this quick start guide is. It was that, again, it's not quite the $300 value that that the calendars are, but, oh my god, you can see it's like, this is amazing, right? This one little thing is helping you, kind of just the whole point is, what's the one focus for the month and what day to do it on? That's the idea. Is, we're super simplifying it. Okay, and if, for some reason, that day passes, when you have access to the calendars, you can go in and look at those green days and use those green days to take actions that create ripples in the world and that basically bring greater fruition back to you in the present.

So let's just say someone is, I mean, some people here are actually investors, and so let's just say someone is making big money decisions or investment decisions. You don't have to take an action on that Green Day. The research you do on that day can have impact. So the clarity of your mind that you have if you ask some questions, if you call and do things. So there's all different ways to use the green days. It doesn't have to always be front facing. It can be the research you do, the answer you get the person you bump into at the coffee shop. I've literally walked, been walking through grocery store parking lots, knowing it's a Green Day, and bumped into the person who you know ended up being the one who pruned my trees and helped me in my garden for like, five years, right? So there's all different ways we use the Green Day energies and so kind of being primed and aware, you can use it in a way that's very helpful to you, right? Does that make sense to you? Like, I really many of you already have the calendars and know this, but you might have a new perspective of like, Oh, I could find somebody to help me, either in my business or my house on a green day, walking to my car. Yeah, you can. It's about awareness. Those are the days to listen to the yeses. Okay, I actually gave my phone number to the owner of the business, and his right hand man called me, and that's the person who worked for me for five years. Okay? Think it's a good example.

Module 2 Conclusion and Transition to Module 3

Now, as we go to the next segment, we are going to see, let's just see, before I do that, I'm going to pull this up. I think we are two Yes, that's the end of that module. And so now we're to the next module, and I'm going to go back here. Great. And where to module three? Oh, and what I'm going to do is, for simplicity sake, go ahead. And so that's the concept. Is, does that make sense? Everyone? The Quick Start Guide that should really kind of help you, even if you're a calendar owner, Cool, good. And so that's really the main thing I wanted to cover in module two. And so I'll stop the recording here, and we'll go into module three, where we really start going a little deeper. And.
